

Concierge Communications Adds Face to Face Live to Carrier Portfolio

Tempe, AZ , August 3, 2009 – Concierge Communications, a business communications and technology consultation company, has announced the addition of Face to Face Live to their expanding portfolio of providers. Face to Face is an exclusive reseller and managed service provider of LifeSize Communications HD Video videoconferencing and telepresence systems.

“Concierge Communications is excited to add managed video conferencing and telepresence to our portfolio of providers,” said Clark Atwood, Vice President of Concierge Communications. “This offering will be especially attractive to our clients that utilize a Class of Service (CoS) network because they can incorporate video into the priority on their existing network.”

Concierge Communications believes that video based solution adoption will increase significantly due to decreased travel because of costs, the need for instantaneous collaboration between sites, possible pandemic implications and many more business benefits. Concierge clients, particularly those operating a CoS network, will be able to have their networks meet Face to Face Live video conference bridges at a premiere carrier hotel. This connection option enables all clients the option for CoS with video if they choose.

“Face to Face Live is thrilled to be a part of Concierge Communications,” said Al Smith, CEO of Face to Face Live. “This partnership will provide companies an additional option to help reduce travel costs and decrease their carbon footprint while increasing their profitability. It’s all about doing more, travelling less, and being present.”
